I acknowledge the Traditional Custodians of Country and recognise their continuing connections to land, waters and sky. I recognise that their wisdom, culture, and stewardship have sustained the wellbeing of this place for millennia.

Poems for Independence is a collection of new works from Byron Kinnaird exploring the possibilities of poetry as drawing. Three large-scale works anchor the show, accompanied by a suite of new experimental charcoal drawings continuing Byron's exploration in landscape, spirituality, architecture, iconography, and poetry. Working through an intuitive and reflective process, these new works move between personal inner explorations and shared human experience.

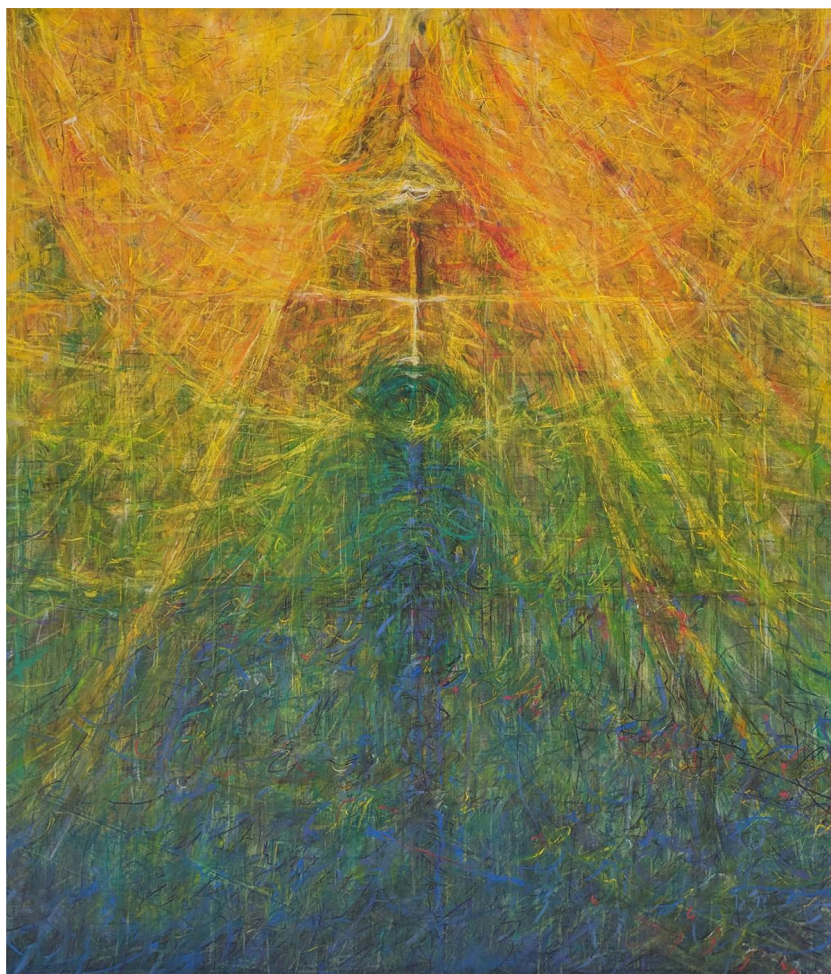

Byron Kinnaird is an artist from Whakatāne, Aotearoa New Zealand, now living and working on Gundungurra and Darug Country in Blackheath.

Title We are always changed / Mountain call Tender practice Here's to love, grief and colourful moves
In all this wonder –
'It's okay to feel unbelievably lost'

Details 140cm x 120cm
2025, soft pastel and charcoal on paper.

Title It is well with the child wild compassion at the kitchen table watching the sun dance
I know, I know –
Don't give up

Details 140cm x 120cm
2025, soft pastel and charcoal on paper.

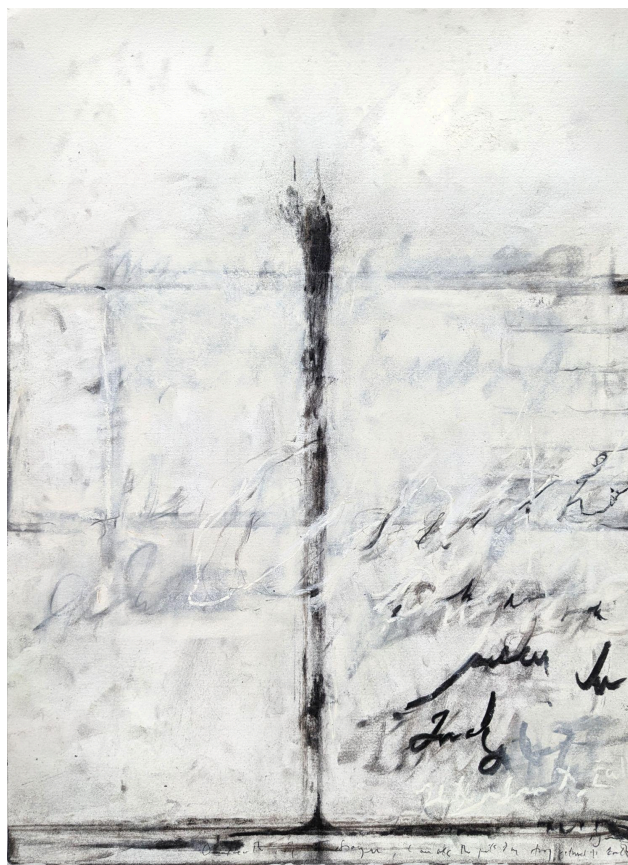

Title	Solitary dreamer In twenty-seven homes a decade in the mountains closer to home
Details	38cm x 28cm 2025, charcoal, soft pastel on paper

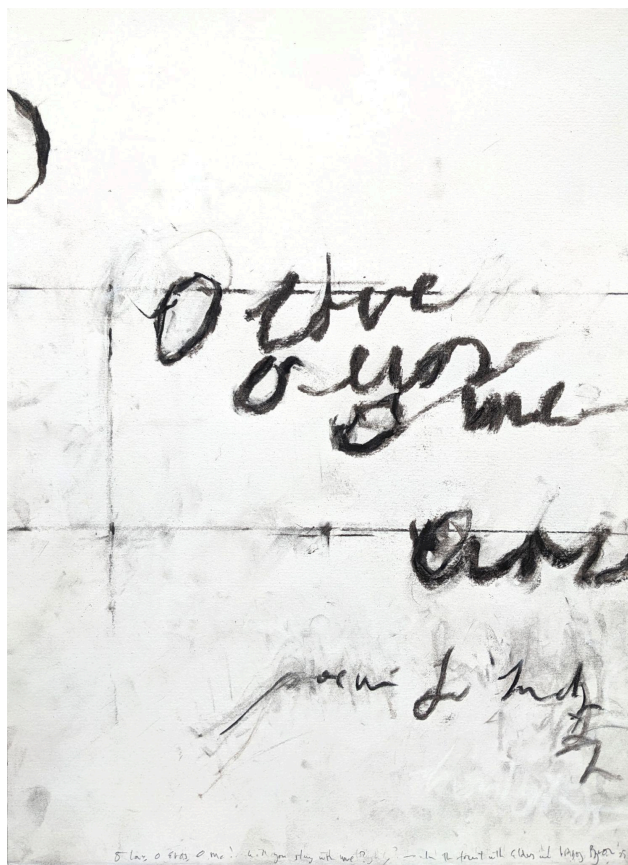

Title Long fast roads
 Soft edges
 And the unemployment of it all

Details 38cm x 28cm
 2025, charcoal, soft pastel on paper

Title O death, great changer
 I am all the parts of my story
 Returned to earth

Details 38cm x 28cm
 2025, charcoal, soft pastel on paper

Title O love, O eros, O me!
 Will you stay with me?
 In the forest with elders and birdsong

Details 38cm x 28cm

Title Poems for Independence Slow fingertip thoughts in the work of Tāwhirimātea the silver wrinkled age of Unconditional beloved Fools and dancing daughters
Here's a night pities neither wise man nor fool (KL 3.ii)
All miraculous remains, in significance.
